George Schieferdecker is one of three founding partners of BKSK Architects, established in 1985. As an architect, he collaborates with clients and stakeholders to build consensus and craft flexible and distinctive architectural solutions. Whether working on a library, a historic renovation, or a residential development, George has consistently designed award-winning projects. His 25 Bond Street project won a 2008 AIA New York Design Award for multi-family housing, and his East End Temple project garnered a National AIA Honor Award.

George Schieferdecker was born in the Netherlands and grew up in the United States. This background continually informs an affinity for modern buildings that expressively interact with their historic contexts. He considers regional understanding and finegrained awareness of place to be essential for creating enduring architecture, and he strives to thoughtfully observe the communities that he serves.

George is an expert in library planning and design. In addition to his architecture work, he has directed numerous library visioning sessions with communities and hosted a library design workshop for librarians. Through his work with the Mamaroneck Public Library and the Plainsboro Public Library, he has proven himself adept at producing feasibility studies that are rich in vision and practical in budget.

George holds an undergraduate degree from Middlebury College and a Master of Architecture from Columbia University.
